Detachments Numbering Thirty Constables Ordered to Dominion Collieries—One Miner Faction Calls Strike.

GLACE BAY, N.S., Feb. 5.—Detachments of Royal Canadian Mounted Police were sent today to be enroute to Dominion No. 11 from various centres in anticipation of a disagreement between local members of the United Mine workers and its rival organization, the Amalgamated mine workers.

More than 30 constables were reported ordered to the scene of the trouble, which began when Amalgamated workers charged discrimination against members of their organization. They decided to strike at Number 11 colliery of the Dominion Coal and Steel Corporation until Dan Murren is permitted to return to the mine. Murren was installed with family by members of his union in one of the company homes to which U.M.W. officials claimed another worker was entitled.

Subsequently his "lamp was taken away" and A. M. W. workers voted to strike Tuesday in protest.

Members of the other body, however, decided to request the "return of the white blouse," despite announcement by A. M. W. executives that they were not aware of a call for reinforcements and of the fact that reinforcements were being sent.

The detachment would arrive.

"ECONOMY" TO BLAME

"Economy" is to blame for the wreck that occurred on the Athabasca railway line last Monday, resulting in the death of a winter driver and the fireman. The finding of the jury which investigated the accident, and the evidence placed before the jury, leave no other conclusion possible.

Two section men only, the testimony shows, were employed to clear an eighteen mile stretch of track in condition in which the engine lorry prevented them making an inspection trip over the line between Friday and Monday.
Jury in clearing the debris of snow, sleet, and bad weather, made it impossible for them to tramp the eighteen miles back and forth during that time. The engine lorry, at the fatal crossing, which threw the engine from the track.

The inescapable conviction is that the wreck would not have occurred had enough section men been employed to give the track the daily inspection and amount of attention every railway track needs. The engine lorry was the disaster, and all that it means to the relatives of the engine men, traces directly back to the close-packing policy that has been imposed upon the National railways during the depression years.

"Save money" has been the standing order in everything that concerned the operation of the public-owned railway system, even when that meant letting the engine lorry go into and putting in peril the lives of trainmen and passengers. The only wonder is that there have not been far more disastrous wrecks long ago.

COME DOWN TO EARTH

Mr. Lucas, member for Camrose, has a motion before parliament proposing to establish a national system of credit, to be controlled in the interest of all the people and under the jurisdiction of the federal parliament.

The resolution is too innocuous to accomplish anything. It means whatever anyone chooses to import into it. What Mr. Lucas means by it may be inferred by his own words. He is the upholders of the present money and finance system adopting it as their own, declaring that describes that system as "the only one" and supporting their claim by chanting the well-known liturgy of their ancient economic creed.
They are politicians, and they are exactly that—and leave Mr. Lucas to prefer the winds that he meant something different.

Not much headway will be made in freeing the Canadian people from the chains of debt, manipulated credit, and interest-bearing public debt, so long as the men who claim to be governors continue to talk in such ambiguous accumulations of words as the above. If these hope to accomplish anything they will have to come out of the clouds, point to specific disasters, and suggest definite proposals for amendment.

Why not, for example, move that parliament instruct the Government to stop borrowing money for capital purposes, issue new money to pay for public works, and provide a sinking fund to retire the extra currency over an appropriate period?

That would mean something tangible. It could not be side-stepped. It would line up the members of parliament directly on the question of who owns the public credit.

DOES CANADA NEVER WIN?

On February 2nd of last year the Canadian dollar was worth 84 cents in New York, being at a discount of 16 per cent. On February 2nd of this year it stood at 99 cents plus, approximately par. A gain during the year of 18 per cent on the value of a year ago, measured in terms of New York dollars, is no small thing.
A year ago the pound sterling was worth $3.40 in New York. It is now worth $4.00, on the corresponding date, a gain in New York funds of $1.57 cents, or 46 per cent of the value of the pound a year ago.

A year ago the New York dollar was of course at gold par. It is now worth less than 60 cents gold, a drop of 40 per cent in the value of last February.

If the Canadian dollar had advanced in step with the British pound, it would have made a gain in the year of 40 cents, and be worth now $1.23 in New York.

If the Canadian dollar had gone up as far as the U.S. dollar went down, measured in gold, it would now stand at $1.17 in New York.

Canada a year ago was on a "sound" money basis, and it is still on that basis so far as the public are aware. If there has been any reduction in the gold coverage for our currency in the meantime, nothing has been said about it, which cannot be supposed to be the case.

Here is a conundrum that Ottawa should clear up. There may be in the intricate calculations of financial money mania some formula which will explain satisfactorily why the Canadian dollar has only advanced 18 per cent while the pound has advanced 46 per cent, and why the Canadian dollar has only gone up to par with the United States dollar while the value of that dollar has slumped to three-fifths its gold value a year ago. The Canadian dollar having in the meantime been preserved on a strictly "sound" basis.

The plain man, pondering these figures, has a sense that the Government of Canada, the provinces, the municipalities, and every Canadian corporation and citizen having bills to settle in New York are being offered, whether by the mysterious workings of our "sound" money system or by the manipulations of money-changing interests.

A money system which penalizes Canadian governments and citizens to the tune of 16 cents on the dollar when the U.S. dollar is at gold par, but which only raises the value of the Canadian dollar 18 cents when the gold value of the dollar drops more than 40 cents, does not seem to possess the essential qualifications of a "sound" gold-backed currency system. It is a game of "Heads we lose, tails we don't win."

Poems That Live

MY LIGHT THOU ART

My light thou art, without thy glorious light
My eyes are darkened with eternal night;
My Love, thou art my way, my life, my light.

Thou art my way, I wonder if thou fly;
Thou art my light, if I, how blind am I;
Thou art my life, if I, how without thee I die.

Thou art my life, if I, how but turn away;
Thou art my way, I wonder if thou fly;
Without thee, Love, I travel not, but stray.

The decision of the British government to prevent Timber Distributors Limited, a large British firm, from exporting lumber to Japan more than 700,000,000 feet board measurement of lumber from Soviet Russia this year is being described as a "disaster" by the British government. We are informed that those who are familiar with the timber importation from Russia will be able to export through Finland, as the latter has been declared for some time past. In other words, it is suggested that the front door has been locked against export shipments, while the back door has been left wide open.—Victoria Times.

The Passing Show

and brought up children and grandchildren, at the end of a three-year-struggle to keep from soliciting government relief (to avert which she says "we would just as soon lay down and die") sends in a poem of her own composition,

"Sick" Gall Bladder

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

It is a strange fact that many more women
than men suffer from gall bladder trouble.
This disorder comes on after the age of 40, and while it may be seen in this people, is most commonly seen in the latter part of life, when who enjoys three hearty meals a day with a little exercise.

The patient with a gall bladder with chronic inflammation of the gall bladder has spells when he feels worse, followed by spells when he feels better, but at no time does he feel really well. As a general rule, the disorder runs on for several years. There is not any question but that such a condition as chronic gall bladder inflammation should be cleared up as soon as possible. For one thing, it tends to make the patient
the formation of gall stones and the patient will gain only by overcoming the gall bladder trouble before these stones have a chance to form.

The gall bladder is a small organ in which
bile from the liver is stored and made more concentrated. When the stored bile is needed it is sent to the intestine. The "sick" gall bladder does not empty out the bile as it should
and instead of going forward into the intestine, the bile flow is reversed, and some of it stays back up into the stomach, causing the upset of the digestive system. The bile which is in other cases, some of the damaged bile is absorbed by the blood and part of it shows in the urine as a yellowish, or yellow discoloration in the white of the eyes.

The gall bladder does not function properly because of inflammation may be a danger to your health. If the gall bladder is sick, the entire body may be poisoned day after day by the retained bile. The gall bladder becomes a variable chronic condition and the patient will remain in poor health until the gall bladder condition is cleared up.

The gall bladder may become inflamed so badly that you do not know when your trouble started, or the chronic condition may come on after an acute attack.

Some of the reasons brought about during a chronic gall bladder inflammation are the following: The mucous membrane may be swollen and inflamed. The gall bladder may become may contain pus; or the walls of the organ may have become thickened and hardened by a tough fibrin or other gall bladder may be changed in size and either be too large or too small. Or, the organ may be covered by a many adhesions that it is almost impossible to find it. By means of these adhesions it has grown to nearby parts and is crippled because of the real reason you have a "sick" gall bladder is because you have lived in a certain way.
Something which you have done wrong, or has been wrong. In curing your trouble it is most important for you to correct your wrong habits and generally change your life to use good habits of living which produce a normally healthy gall bladder.

Gall Bladder Disease."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
QUESTION.—Mr. Deak of El Paso, Tex., inquires: "Could you give me advice concerning a boy of twelve who complains of pains through the body when he handles tools or iron instruments, but not at any other time?"

ANSWER.—I have heard of such cases; however, I believe they are rather rare. You may want to consult a doctor. It may be that the boy suffers similar distress when ever he was around a radio and was able to stand comfortably by using a specially obtained case. Since I have not heard of any other child, I could not tell you whether or not this tendency to pain when handling an iron tool could be a sign of any disease. I would suggest that you place him on a correct diet as may possibly bring about a satisfactory improvement.

QUESTION.—Mr. T. P. of South Manchester,
Conn., asks: "Is there any way that I could determine the limit of my stomach's butter used as in massage would be harmful?"

ANSWER.—The buty may be developed by the use of suitable exercises. The chief ones are those bringing about vigorous exercise of the arms. I see no reason to believe that rubbing on cocoa butter would be harmful.

is your opinion of mushrooms? I am quite fond of canned mushrooms and would like to con-diet as they make a welcome change. Canned mushrooms may be served on a hot bed of lettuce, and if you are fond of them, I advise that you continue to use them.

SIDE GLANCES--By George Clark

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

It is a strange fact that many more women
than men suffer from gall bladder trouble.
This disorder comes on after the age of 40, and while it may be seen in this people, is most commonly seen in the latter part of life, when
who enjoys three hearty meals a day with a little exercise.

The patient with a gall bladder with chronic
inflammation of the gall
bladder has spells when he feels worse, followed by spells
when he feels better, but at
no time does he feel really
well. As a general rule,
the disorder runs on for several years. There is not any question but that such a condition as chronic gall bladder
inflammation should be cleared up as soon as possible. For one thing, it tends to make the patient
the formation of gall stones and the patient
will gain only by overcoming the gall bladder trouble before these stones have a chance to form.

The gall bladder is a small organ in which
bile from the liver is stored and made more concentrated. When the stored bile is needed
it is sent to the intestine. The "sick" gall bladder does not empty out the bile as it should
and instead of going forward into the intestine,
the bile flow is reversed, and some of it stays
back up into the stomach, causing the upset
of the digestive system. The bile which is in other cases, some of the damaged bile is
absorbed by the blood and part of it shows
in the urine as a yellowish, or yellow discoloration in the white of the eyes.

The gall bladder does not function
properly because of inflammation may be a danger to your health. If the gall bladder is sick, the entire body may be poisoned day after day by the retained bile. The gall bladder becomes a variable chronic condition and the patient will remain in poor health until the gall bladder condition is cleared up.

The gall bladder may become inflamed so
badly that you do not know when your trouble started, or the chronic condition may come on
after an acute attack.

Some of the reasons brought about during a chronic gall bladder inflammation are the following: The mucous membrane may be swollen
and inflamed. The gall bladder may become
may contain pus; or the walls of the organ may have become thickened and hardened by a tough fibrin or other gall bladder may be changed in size and either be too large or too small. Or, the organ may be covered by a many adhesions that it is almost impossible to find it. By means of these adhesions it has grown to nearby parts and is crippled because of the real reason you have a "sick" gall bladder
is because you have lived in a certain way.
Something which you have done wrong, or
has been wrong. In curing your trouble it is most important for you to correct your wrong
habits and generally change your life to use
good habits of living which produce a normally healthy gall bladder.

Gall Bladder Disease."

QUESTION.—Mr. Deak of El Paso, Tex., inquires: "Could you give me advice concerning a boy of twelve who complains of
pains through the body when he handles tools or iron instruments, but not at any other time?"

ANSWER.—I have heard of such cases; however, I believe they are rather rare. You may want to consult a doctor. It may be that the boy suffers similar distress when ever he was
around a radio and was able to stand
comfortably by using a specially obtained
case. Since I have not heard of any other child, I could not tell you whether or not this
tendency to pain when handling an iron tool
could be a sign of any disease. I would suggest that you place him on a correct diet as
may possibly bring about a satisfactory improvement.

QUESTION.—Mr. T. P. of South Manchester,
Conn., asks: "Is there any way that I could determine the limit of my stomach's butter used
as in massage would be harmful?"

ANSWER.—The buty may be developed by the use of suitable exercises. The chief ones
are those bringing about vigorous exercise
of the arms. I see no reason to believe that rubbing on cocoa butter would be harmful.

Film Capital Does Its Best To Marry Off Noted Screen Star

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5.—Anyone inspecting the current trans-continental train for a half, North young woman, garbed in gaudy, a long full for red, dark glasses and a wide-brimmed hat—or Grete Garbo in disguise, can stop looking. Miss Garbo is still in Hollywood.

Excitement developed in the film colony over the week-end after it became known that Rouben Mamoulian, director of the Swedish actress and her companion on a recent motor trip to Arizona which stirred movie fans to speculate over the possibility of a marriage of the couple, had taken a train to New York.

A subsequent report said Miss Garbo was accompanying him again, but it all subsided after inquiries had verified through close friends of the actress that she was still in Hollywood.

Sir Chas. Neish Dies In London

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Sir Charles Neish, registrar of the privy council since 1909 and well-known to many Canadians who have carried appointments to that tribunal, died yesterday at the age of 76.

Sir Charles, knighted in 1924, was private secretary to Earl Lathom when he was lord chancellor, from 1905 to 1909.

Ann Doran Locates Her Dad

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5.—Ann Doran's nationwide search for aid in locating her father, which she has not seen for 14 years, has brought results. The film actress said yesterday her father, Robert McKim, had communicated with her from Philadelphia, where he now resides.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5.—You might call it nervousness. You might call it stage fright. You might say it's just about mindless.

But, whatever it is, Hollywood's got it. It's nothing over which to become alarmed, however. Our favorite stars still will make them. This "disease," or whatever it is, is really nothing new. It is the reflex action of the human nerve and has been common among all human beings for centuries.

But Hollywood just has discovered it and now most of our prominent persons are suffering from it. And they are detected easily.

For instance, while waiting to go into a scene, Wallace Beery takes a cane or some other heavy object on the floor or a table. Jan Crawford, her handkerchief into a series of knots, some as tight as the knot on the neck of Marie Dressler when her racking chair at top speed.

Clark Gable whistles a stick of wood until there is nothing left of it. Robert Montgomery, with a paper clip, bending in on all sorts of odd angles until it breaks. Jeanette MacDonald crumples her cigarette.

Otto Kruger, just his fingers on his cigarette. Myrna Loy just sits and claps and arches her hands. Stuart Erwin rattles the cane in his pocket.

Lionel Barrymore draws circles on the floor with his foot. And all the others have some little peculiarities like these.

FREE FROM EXAMS. Found, at last, an actor honest in his reason for choosing his profession. This unusual man is Hugh Williams. English stage and screen star, recently brought to Hollywood by Fox. Williams' acting career started during his school days. He left his college education because he couldn't stand the written exam.

Then he learned that the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London didn't give examinations. So he enrolled. And he's acting still.

STRING SAVED. A few interesting things discovered about Edward Everett Horton. He saves string, particularly the tinny kind which comes on Christmas packages. "I would rather eat Irish stew than string," Horton always was a sport overcast with even clothes. "I like to skin rocks across lakes or rivers."

He has a collection of automobiles and owns three automobiles and a car.

STRAND. Above all things, Edmund Lowe, star of Universal's entrancing mystery story of India, "Bombay Mail," is not superstitious. Lower, who plays a number of other actors and actresses, including Shirley Grey, Onslow Stevens and Hedda Hopper, during the making of the picture, which is now at the Strand theatre, insisted on playing a scene again and again until he got it right.

Following an announcement that Universal's sensational "Bombay Mail" is being shown at the Strand theatre, hundreds have asked what the title means.

According to the theatre management, "Bombay Mail" refers to an express train which runs from Calcutta to Bombay in 39 hours. It has been called "The Imperial Indian Mail" and is very popular with British and American travellers.

TOBY WING IS NEW LIFESAVER

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5.—Toby Wing, a chorus beauty who learned to swim to obtain a feature role she wanted, has cashed in on her aquatic knowledge as the heroine of an accident that wasn't called for in the film script.

Miss Wing, with Ida Lupino, young British actress, and eight other girls, was floating in the jungle lake Saturday on location. The action called for her to swing across the water on a long rope of vines.

As she swung in a long arc, Mary Blackwood, film extra, who had just dived from a tree, came up and caught the full force of Miss Wing's feet on her neck. Miss Blackwood, unconscious and with her nose fractured, sank in 10 feet of water.

Miss Wing dived and collided with the unconscious form. She brought the girl to the surface and swam to shore. Physicians said Miss Blackwood's condition was not serious.

CAPITOL. For sheer entertainment value it is doubtful if any motion picture has ever been bettered. It carries the interest, color and excitement of Metropolis, the stupendous production of "Dinner at Eight" which opened Saturday at the Capitol where it continues until Friday.

Even if the play were not as clever as it is, the mere spectacle of seeing so imposing an array of celebrities in one film as Marie Wallace, Barry Jean Harlow, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Billie Burke, Claude Rains, Jean Harlow, Karen Morley, Louise Closser Hale, Philip Hailand and May Robson would be enough to stimulate one's cinema appetite. Moreover, the picture has been an artfully constructed production that practically each and every one of the well-known Hollywood producers has a big name to himself.

The plot of "Dinner at Eight" is by now so well known as to need almost no explanation. Briefly it concerns a dinner which a Park Avenue hostess gives for two members of the British nobility. The dinner host, however, takes up but small space in the proceedings. Instead the picture is placed on what happens prior to the arrival at the dinner table. One guest prevents her husband from leaving out at all business concerns; another guest broils in a notorious scandal; a third guest catches up a marriage which seems on the verge of crumbling; a fourth commits suicide. The host and hostess endeavor to solve the first thing verging on disaster but without avail all over again as the time dinner begins.

DREAMLAND. Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy are the featured players in Arthur Somers Roche's production, which is at the Dreamland theatre. It is a Comstock production filmed at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios and stars Arthur Somers Roche, production manager.

Pictures Prove War Real Crime, Sir Wm. Mulock

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—The official photographs of Canada's part in the Great War—photos depicting actual warfare and its results—were reviewed minutely, critically, by Sir William Mulock, 80-year-old chief justice. His comment thereon was solicited for the Edmonton Bulletin which will publish the pictures.

"They are primarily an exposure of the horror, the waste, the shame, the sin of war," he declared. "They will tremendously supplement and emphasize what our nation—what every nation, in these days of intelligence and professed Christianity—should recognize and know."

"That it is a crime, intrinsically and economically and ethically, to go to war."

"It is my emphatic opinion that by having finally released these official pictures, the government has started a course of influence destined to be in the highest way beneficial upon the whole nation."

"Do you think, then, that there is existent any considerable 'war spirit' to be combated?" Sir William was asked.

"Indubitably, yes," he replied. "There is undoubtedly such a thing as the 'glamor' of war. And in this regard I highly commend the action of The Bulletin in providing this great counter-influence."

"While, of course, to not a few earnest hearts—and especially to bereaved and broken hearts—

these pictures may present such that starts at the wounds of memory, yet such I feel sure, will be willingly borne, in the light of this colossal compensation, that the overwhelming influence of these scenes will foster that hatred of war which will be a result that will gladden the most grieving heart."

"To what," the chief justice was asked, "would you attribute, chiefly, the 'glamor' of war to which you have referred?"

"Those influences are many," he replied. "Our own hearts, especially of youth, with chivalric impulses, play a part. Then, too, books of stirring story help to foster so-called chivalric dreams."

"And, in our day, a generation is growing up that knows war only as portrayed on the screen."

"The exposure of war's dread and sordid realities, in these photographs, will go far to dissipate the deplorable illusion."

Before offering his opinions above, Sir William, in use his own words, "examined the pictures with deep and ever-increasing interest. To say the least," he said, "they certainly bid fair to be monumental in their significance and interest."

"The newspaper publishing these is sowing with a generous hand and should reap with a rejoicing heart."

WITHOUT A PARALLEL.

"It seems to me that there can only be one opinion as to the excellence—the surpassing excellence—of these marvelous reproductions of the dead details of war."

"The vividness and convincingness of their execution, it seems to me, could hardly be surpassed, so far as I know, no such achievement, on such a vast and varied scale, has ever before been presented to the public."

"I do not speak, of course, as an expert, nor as in any special way competent to pronounce artistic values—I speak only of the appeal these pictures must indubitably make to the human heart. The power of such appeal to my mind, can hardly be over-stated."

Canada's Epic Story Told in Official War Photographs

On this page begins publication of the most stupendous series of pictures ever printed in a Canadian newspaper — the story of Canada's part in the Great War, as told in the official war photographs, released by arrangement with the Dominion government. Now, for the first time, the whole chronicle of Canada's heroic deeds and sacrifices is given to the public in images that neither soften nor exaggerate. It offers nothing less than the complete record of the greatest epoch in the nation's history—a journalistic achievement without parallel. This series of pictures will merit careful preservation by all readers. Follow it.

OVER THE TOP WITH THE BEST OF LUCK—Underneath the inferno of shellfire, with hearts pounding and heads down, these Canadians are swarming over the parapet in a bayonet charge at the Battle of the Somme, in September, 1916. Laden with bombs, shovels, sandbags, with enemy machine guns mowing and enemy barbed wire in huge tangled hedges ahead of them, 48,000 Canadian infantry went over the top in this longest and bitterest battle of the war. —Official Canadian War Photo.

WHO WAS HE?—The bodies of 30,000 Frenchmen lay in shallow graves on Vimy Ridge when the Canadians came to take it. —Official Canadian War Photo.

WHERE DID THAT ONE GO?—No soldiers show in this picture of Vimy village. But in all these cellars, behind all those weak walls of brick, men are hiding as this German shell whines and crashes. —Official Canadian War Photo.

Guns Mow Down Three Desperadoes In Oklahoma

Two Raiding Officers Are Murdered in Farm Battle

SAPULPA, Okla., Feb. 5.—The guns of Sapulpa officers yesterday had cut three from the list of wanted Oklahoma bad men, but their own ranks were decimated by the loss of two who took part in a battle between the law and the lawless.

Eldon Wilson, a robber-fugitive, brought to jail with four bullet wounds, died Sunday. The others killed were—

Tom Brunley, 46, Sapulpa police chief; Charles E. Lloyd, 32, a patrolman; Annie Elliott, a dangerous criminal and also a fugitive; and Raymond Moore, known to the officers only as an accomplice of Elliott and Wilson.

Lee Davis, whose farm home the shooting occurred, was held in jail at Tulsa for safekeeping.

Elliott and Wilson each were under 50-year sentences for armed robbery. They once were members of the Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd band, fighting with Floyd since 1932, they had raided society's carter since that time.

Police announced the Davis farm home late Saturday and the following day when the town took such a tremendous toll followed.

Prince's Visit Cuts Time Of Jail Sentences

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 5.—The union government yesterday announced that in honor of Prince George's visit to the country, it would remit three months on the unexpired portion of any prison sentence passed prior to Sunday for crimes other than violence.

Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog sent a radio message to the Prince, and the Commander-in-Chief, General Jan Smuts, tendered a hearty welcome on behalf of the people of the Union.

Child Dies After Eating Iron Pills

SASKATOON, Feb. 5.—Attracted by the sugar-coating on some trusted tablets, Mabel Gladys Edgar, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram S. Edgar, of this city, died a number of pills Saturday evening at supper time and died of convulsions five hours later. No autopsy will be held.

Hero Graves for Soviet Balloonists Who Crashed

Commanded by Pavel Fedosenko (top-left), a scientist with no stratosphere experience, the Soviet balloon station reportedly saw a new world altitude mark when it rose almost 13 miles in the air. Upon the descent, at night, the gondola crashed, killing the commander, also Andrew Vavrenko, (at bottom) and Ilya Uryin, (shown at top right).

HISTORIC N. Z. SITE PRESENTED

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Feb. 5.—Lord Bledisloe, governor-general of New Zealand, and Lady Bledisloe yesterday handed over to the nation the historic site at Waitangi on which the famous treaty was signed between Governor Hobson and the Maori chiefs which led to New Zealand coming under British sovereignty. The site was purchased recently by Lord and Lady Bledisloe.

Representatives of all the Maori tribes and thousands of New Zealanders and Australians have assembled for the ceremony.

Married women of middle age have a better chance of a long life than older widows or spinsters.

Spartan Wood-Cutting BATTLES IN MISERY FOR LIVELIHOOD

Woman Defies "Wolf"

MIDDLETON, N.Y., Feb. 5.—A wood-cutting woman of 33 and her ill mother continued their valiant efforts yesterday to eke out a miserable existence in their poorly constructed mountain chicken-coop, too proud to apply for relief and indignation when it is offered.

Discovered in their black rear Clayville by Mrs. Susan Polish, commissioner of public welfare, the younger woman greeted her with "Who need for you? We need no help." Offers to aid drew indignation.

DEATH MARKS SETTLEMENT OF TAXI ROW

Gotham Cabs Resume — But Body of Independent Driver in River

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—An end to the taxi drivers' strike which three days is estimated to have cost the industry $300,000, was formally announced last night by Morris L. Brent after presiding over a lengthy conference between representatives of the strikers and employers.

It was announced all 20,000 of the city's taxis will be running again today.

THREE-WAY SPLIT

The strikers and the employers agreed to a three-way division, in which the public shares, of the receipts from a five-cent tax imposed on each side by the former O'Brien administration. The drivers struck to obtain 100 per cent. of this fund. It is estimated in total between $300,000 and $1,000,000.

The body of Owen Quinn, 37-year-old taxi driver, who defied strikers' orders to stay off the streets, was found in his cab at the bottom of the East River Sunday.

Passengers were dragged from independent taxis and drivers were beaten with brass knuckles Sunday as violence flared in the crowded Times square district. Demonstrating strikers and sympathizers stopped cars, smashed windows and doors and blocked the theatre area.

Rocket Aeroplanes?

Left, center, Professor J. B. Haldane, British scientist, who has announced that tests are being made for developing a stratoplane, with a rocket gondola, capable of flying from London to New York in two and one-half hours. Center is Mark E. Ridge, U.S. aviator whose experiments with Prof. Haldane have resulted so satisfactorily that heavier-than-air machines for flying in the upper atmosphere are due within a year's time. Right, center, are Ernest Lockell and Edward Hanna, who are developing a rocket plane in Cleveland, Ohio. Their plane will be shot 15 miles into the stratosphere, Hanna is financing the experiment. Sketches above is a conception of the stratoplane, and below is a picture of the rocket.

ORIENT LINER RUNS ASHORE OFF VICTORIA

President Grant Sticks on Mudbank When Port Engine Quits

VICTORIA, Feb. 5.—Examination of her hull by divers revealed the American mail liner steamship President Grant had sustained no apparent damage as a result of spending seven hours aground Sunday night and early Sunday, on a mud bar off McCauley Point in the outer Victoria harbor.

The port engine of the Grant apparently gave trouble as she was leaving her dock here at 6 p.m. Saturday, for the Orient, and the vessel scraped the bow of the cashing Restorer, inflicting only minor damage on the latter ship.

The Grant drifted across the harbor and grounded at 6.45 p.m. She rested there until 1.45 a.m. Sunday when the aid of the S.S. Salvage King, the United States coastguard cutter Shenomah, and two small tugs, was refloated and brought back to pier here.

Eighty-six passengers were on board the vessel, which had arrived earlier in the day from Seattle. She sent on a final spin Sunday afternoon and after ascertaining that everything was all right, proceeded on her voyage to the Orient.

The passengers made light of the situation, the ship was calm, but was neither wind or fog, and the shore was less than a quarter-mile distant.

"Abolish Jar and Bump and Bounce"

Drive the New LAUGHLIN-BUICK

A GENERAL MOTORS SILVER ANNIVERSARY VALUE

Enjoy A FLOATING RIDE

WHAT is this FLOATING RIDE that people are talking about? It's the greatest advance in riding since the invention of the shock absorber... the result of Kne-Action Front Wheels, another revolutionary new system of car design pioneered by Laughlin-Buick.

It banishes the jar and bump and bounce of the ordinary motor ride—it is a comfort beyond description to back seat passengers—ends steering kick and wheel shimmy. Too good to be true? We urge you to be your own judge—to convince yourself—by driving one of the new Laughlin-Buicks today.

Amazing as this FLOATING RIDE truly is, it is only one of the many great ways in which the new Laughlin-Buick covers twenty-seven years of automobile progress—and takes advantage of the practical suggestions of 60,000 Canadian gathered in General Motors "Customer Research" questionnaires.

Others, almost as important, are—Vacuum-Power Brakes... super-balloon Air Cushion Tires... Automatic Starting... controlled Octane Selector... the 100,000 mile Laughlin-Buick Straight Eight Engine... Sturdier, Bomber Bodies by Fisher, with improved No-Drift Ventilation... to name only a few.

We invite you—come to our showrooms today. Enjoy your first FLOATING RIDE now.

Dominion Bank In Strong Position Statement Shows

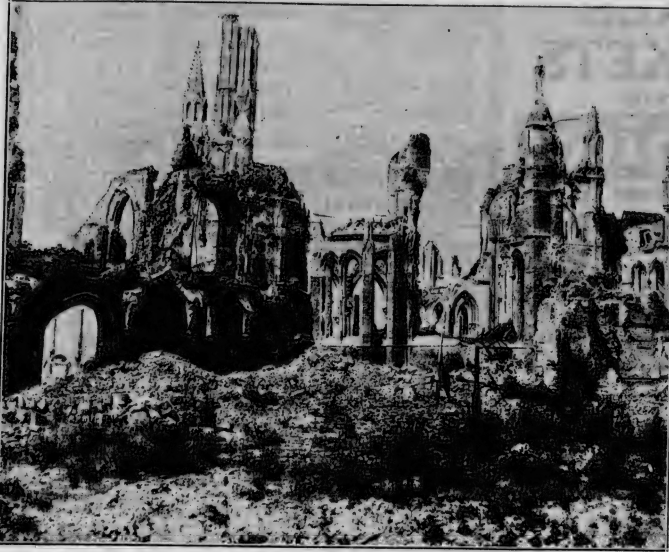

The sixty-third Annual Statement of the Dominion Bank for the twelve months ending December 31st, last, makes it clear that the Bank is in a particularly strong position. Other called features of the Statement are the deposits and earnings have well maintained a high level of interest rates and that the Bank has still further added to its investments in Government securities. The report gives evidence that business is steady and that a momentary upward movement may now be in prospect. Cash resources are $58,091,417, compared with $55,648,802 at the end of 1932.

Bank Premises Account has been further reduced by $50,000, written off from the year's profits, and stands at $520,000.

In all its particulars the sixty-third Annual Statement of the Bank is both satisfactory and encouraging.

Fruitful Fields, Pleasant Towns, Unhappy Men

STRANGE FORMS OF WORSHIP—Ypres Cathedral, shown at one stage of its decay during the four years that undid what four centuries tried to do. If you spare churches in modern warfare, you can have no idea what base uses your enemy might put them to. So with a gift for mathematics and a few large howitzers, you put an end to all your doubts in the matter.

SEE IF HIS HEART BEATS?—A Canadian medical officer and his staff, following over the battlefield, pause at a German lying in the Somme mud to see if any spark of life remains.

PROMENADE AVEC MOI?—Behind the lines, where the Canadians went to rest about six days out of twenty-four, a few poor French families still scrambled a miserable existence out of their once fruitful acres.

PREHISTORIC MONSTERS WADDLING THROUGH THE DAWN—Canadians are here shown practising the attack with the tanks that first took part in the war at the battle of the Somme and in the attack on Courcellette. Since the Germans concentrated their fire on the tanks, it was learned that a good place not to be was near a tank.

PROPHETIC?—Perhaps this wounded man the bearers are carrying to the dressing station will soon lie under one of these hasty crosses.

LET US WALK IN THE PLEASANT EVENING—These side streets of Ypres are known to tens of thousands of Canadians. Because it is daytime, all the Canadian inhabitants of the cellars and sand-bagged dugouts beneath these broken houses, are asleep. It was only at night, with the rats and other eerie creatures, that men dared move about in this death-haunted city.
